

Autoclave Pouches

McKesson Autoclave Pouches safeguard the sterilization process of surgical instruments. Our disposable, self-sealing pouches are easy to open, with internal and external indicators, eliminating the need for autoclave tape and assuring proper exposure time, high temperatures and saturating steam presence. Available in a variety of sizes for use with both steam and gas sterilization processes.

Features and Benefits

- Self-sealing with autoclave indicator strips to eliminate the use of autoclave tape
- Ideal for optimal sterilization processes designed to destroy harmful bacteria
- Works well with steam and ethylene oxide sterilization
- Not made with natural rubber latex
